A Season On The Line

by Stacy Kauffman, Sports Editor, Nightwire Magazine
Photos ©2019 Pittsburgh Steelers / Karl Roser

The Steelers find themselves in quite a predicament as the calendar turns to October. Winless through the first three weeks of the season, Mike Tomlin's team could start 0-4 for the second time in his tenure. In 2013, they traveled to London to lose to the Minnesota Vikings, then rebounded to finish the season 8-8, narrowly avoiding a losing record but still missing the playoffs. Only one team in the history of the NFL has lost their first four games of the season and secured a seat in the postseason. The 1992 San Diego Chargers, who went 11-1 the rest of the way to do it.

"We recognize football is our game, our business is about winning," said Mike Tomlin. "And we haven't been good at business. The competitor in all of us is a little bit pissed off and appropriately so. We're really putting ourselves behind the eight ball."

The good news – hopefully – is that the Steelers are playing the Bengals at home on Monday Night Football in their fourth game. Cincinnati is also looking for their first victory of 2019, but the numbers are squarely on the Steelers' side in the matchup. They've won eight straight against the Bengals and 11 of their last 12. The black and gold shines brightly on the big stage with a 16-game winning streak at home on Monday nights. Plus, they've never lost to a winless Bengals team this century.

But a Ben Roethlisberger-less offense can't rely on history to help them get in the win column. They need to rely on the ground game. Unfortunately, it has been anemic to say the least. James Conner doesn't even have one hundred yards on the season and is averaging less than three yards a carry. As a team, they are the fourth worst in the NFL with just 64 rushing yards per game. If Conner can't shoulder the load, Offensive Coordinator Randy Fichtner has to get Jaylen Samuels and Benny Snell Jr. involved early. In Week 3, Samuels didn't play one snap and Snell had three carries. Sustaining drives helps not just the offense but the defense. When you force five turnovers, you need to get more than six points. Fichtner was critical of second-year QB Mason Rudolph, who he said just wasn't aggressive enough.

"We were able to go down the field early," Fichtner said.

"You've got to throw them. You've got to throw it. You've got to attempt to throw it there."

Rudolph threw for just 40 yards in the first half versus the 49ers and ended the game with 174 yards, two touchdowns and an interception. He agreed with his coordinator and said he wants to be more aggressive.

"The goal is to win, wherever you're at," said Rudolph.

"That's what I've always done, I'm a winner. That's how I feel and that's what we're going to do."

Out of the 139 teams that have started 1-3 since 2000, 19 of them have made the playoffs. The Steelers hope to join them, but they need to win against the Bengals first.

Fall Beers, or How I learned to Love the Pumpkin

by Brian Meyer

Each year as the weather cools down and the leaves begin to change, the yearly battle of the gourds inevitably begins. Sadly, this skirmish doesn't involve punkin' chunkin', but it does involve fans of beer near and far. Lovers of the fall-centric squash embrace it in everything from beer to coffee to shampoo while their sworn enemies think the only good pumpkin is one smashed in the street.

Wherever you fall on this squash scale, pumpkin beers are a sure sign that the seasons are changing, and shorter days and cooler nights are in our very near future. The use of pumpkins in beer is far from a recent occurrence, and its presence in beer recipes can be traced back to the early settlers of our United States.

While there's far more pumpkin pie spice found in pumpkin beers today, there's still a healthy dose of gourd in most of the better pumpkin beers around today, making them a unique drinking experience that's typically only around for a few short months.

Whether you're a lover of all things pumpkin or you're new to the gourd game and you want to see what all the fuss is about, finding the right pumpkin beer can be tough to say the least. Yours truly has done the legwork and with the help of the fine folks at Vecenie Distributing, I've put together a list of must-try pumpkin beers to fill your fall with all things pumpkin. Check out the list below and don't listen to the haters...pumpkin beers are not only craft beer, they're a great way to celebrate and enjoy the changing of seasons before it gets too cold to think about it.

A full-bodied brown ale with hints of pumpkin and brown sugar. Dogfish Head brews Punkin Ale with pumpkin, brown sugar, and spices. As the season cools, this is the perfect beer to warm up with. 7% ABV

Smuttynose Brewing Company - Pumpkin Ale

This beer is a homage to the craft and heritage of America's brewers. Recipes calling for the use of pumpkins in beer date back to early colonial times, when brewers sought to extend their supply of costly imported malt with locally grown ingredients, such as squash and "pompions." In that spirit, and kick of spices with just hint of hops that ends with a smooth, round finish. 6% ABV

Erie Brewing Company - Johnny Rails Pumpkin

Lancaster Brewing Company - Baked Pumpkin

Have your pie and drink it too! Bold flavor with a deep amber color, our big Baked Pumpkin Ale is sure to remind you of Grandma's homemade pumpkin pie. 7.3% ABV

North Country Brewing Company - Late Night Pumpkin

For the fall season, North Country brews their Late Night Pumpkin with a healthy dose of pumpkin, spice, and of course this is all done late at night, when the pumpkins taste their best. Coming in at 6.1% ABV with a gold color and a nice spiced character, Late Night Pumpkin is a canned beer you definitely need to try. 6.1% ABV

Buffalo Bill's Brewery - Pumpkin

Pittsburgh Public Theater Presents - A Few Good Men

Marya Sea Kaminski leads a powerful platoon in Aaron Sorkin's play about justice and the military's muscular culture of command.

Pittsburgh Public Theater begins its rousing 45th anniversary season with iconic writer Aaron Sorkin's masterpiece, A Few Good Men. Directed by The Public's Artistic Director, Marya Sea Kaminski, A Few Good Men runs through October 13, 2019 at the O'Reilly Theater, Pittsburgh Public Theater's home in the heart of Downtown's Cultural District. For tickets call 412.316.1600, go to ppt.org, or visit the Box Office. A Few Good Men is presented by PNC.

The cast of 19 includes professional actors as well as veteran members of the military. Former Pittsburgh Steeler and Vietnam vet Rocky Bleier, and KDKA's Larry Richert, will each appear as Judge Randolph at select performances. "This play is an incredible opportunity to gather gifted professionals and citizen artists together to tell this story with grit, authenticity, and passion. We expect this to be an event that marks a great moment for us at Pittsburgh Public Theater – of robust imagination and collaboration," Ms. Kaminski said.

A Few Good Men is set in 1986 in Washington D.C. and Guantanamo Bay Naval Base in Cuba. The story concerns two young Marines, Harold Dawson (Ryan Patrick Kearney) and Loudon Downey (Michael Patrick Trimm), accused of killing one of their fellow platoon members while serving at Guantanamo Bay. Assigned to defend them is hotshot lawyer Daniel A. Kaffee (Doug Harris), who has more experience with plea bargains than courtroom battles. But lawyer JoAnne Galloway (Alison Weisgall) believes there are extenuating circumstances that need to be brought up at trial. Even though that means going up against tough-as-nails Colonel Nathan Jessep (Burke Moses), the Commanding Officer at Guantanamo Bay. With wit and Sorkin's trademark rapid-fire dialogue, this hard-hitting story culminates in a blazing military court martial.

Also featured in A Few Good Men are Ryan Bergman, Ken Bolden, Monteze Freeland, Kyle Haden, Billy Jenkins, Tom Kolos, Jason McCune, Jaron J. McLain, J. Alex Noble, Brandon Saturley, Cotter Smith, and Malic Williams.

The design team for Pittsburgh Public Theater's production of A Few Good Men is Ryan Howell (Scenic), Hugh Hanson (Costumes), Sherrice Mojgani (Lighting), Erin Bednarz (Sound), and Joe Spinogatti (Projection Design). Mariel Greenlee is the Choreographer, Randy Kovitz is the Fight Director, Raecine Singletary is the Assistant Director, and Casting is by Pat McCorkle. Pamela Brusoski is the Production Stage Manager and Rebecca C. Monroe is the Assistant Stage Manager. U.S. Marine Corps Sergeant Major Billy Jenkins is serving as the Military Consultant.

ABOUT THE PLAYWRIGHT In 1989, at age 28, Aaron Sorkin had his first Broadway hit with A Few Good Men. In 1992 he adapted the play for a film starring Tom Cruise, Jack Nicholson, and Demi Moore, which received an Academy Award nomination for Best Picture. Since then Mr. Sorkin has written for theater, movies, and television. His films include The American President, Charlie Wilson's War, The Social Network, Moneyball, Steve Jobs, and Molly's Game (which he also directed). For television Mr. Sorkin created and wrote the groundbreaking series "The West Wing." His acclaimed adaptation of To Kill a Mockingbird is currently a sensation on Broadway.

with poisonous gas, and you have just one hour to escape with your lives. Armed only with your wits, you and your friends must solve a series of fiendish puzzles from the mind of a deranged maniac. It's your chance to become the star of your very own horror movie! "Stalked by a Killer" is recommended for ages 12 and older, and guests under the age of 16 will require adult supervision.

Both experiences are housed at THE SCREAM DISTRICT in Pittsburgh's Strip District, and will operate on selected nights through early November, offering Pittsburgh a new and unique Halloween-time attraction. Opening October 3.

Nearby, at Pittsburgh's Market Square, ScareHouse and The Original Oyster House will again team up to present ZOMBIE DEN, the immersive pop-up bar inspired by Pittsburgh's living dead legacy that proved massively popular when it was introduced last season. Also operating selected nights, the ZOMBIE

This Halloween season, the creators of the legendary haunted attraction ScareHouse will unveil a brand-new concept for Halloween thrill-seekers in Pittsburgh: THE SCREAM DISTRICT, a single venue in the iconic Strip District that offers two distinct experiences: the immersive intensity of "The Basement," plus a thrilling new escape room, "Stalked by a Killer."

THE SCREAM DISTRICT will open this fall, with two separate attractions that can be experienced separately or during a single visit to THE SCREAM DISTRICT:

- The Basement – The unique, intimate horror experience invites the brave to venture through alone or with a friend to step into a realm that will haunt their dreams and fuel their nightmares. For 2019, The Basement features more extensive and detailed sets that will immerse the most stalwart of guests into a horrifying space soaked in fear. This year, a dread-filled descent into The Basement promises to be more frightening – and more personal – than ever. The Basement is open to guests 18 and older, and a waiver must be signed for entry.
- Stalked by a Killer – The clock is ticking, the room is filling DEN will open at the Original Oyster House on Sept. 24.

Inside ZOMBIE DEN, the living and the undead gather inside a “safe house” at Ground Zero of a global zombie outbreak. Inspired by the gritty reality of 1968’s Night of the Living Dead, ZOMBIE DEN turns The Original Oyster House into a can’t-miss Halloween experience for horror fans.

Both THE SCARE DISTRICT and ZOMBIE DEN bring a new level of excitement to Halloween in Pittsburgh, even while the original, acclaimed ScareHouse undergoes a complete revamp that will see it reopen in 2020 at a brand-new location.

Filmmaker and actor Elijah Wood, appearing on “Late Night With Seth Meyers,” said of THE BASEMENT. “It was really scary and really intense.”

“I prayed for it to be over, yet didn’t want it to end.” The Pittsburgh Tribune Review wrote about THE BASEMENT, calling it an “experience that’s worth every penny.”

That’s precisely what ScareHouse aims to offer in THE SCREAM DISTRICT says creative director Scott Simmons. “We want to bring something entirely new to Halloween fans this year, experiences that draw them into frightfully fun worlds that envelop them in ways that go far beyond a traditional ‘haunt.’ For loyal fans of ScareHouse and guests who are excited to do something different at Halloween, a visit to The Scare District is an evening they won’t forget.”

Tickets to The Basement start at $43 for a double ticket (admission for two people) and $32 for single admission. Tickets for the “Stalked by a Killer” escape room start at $27. Tickets for both attractions, and additional information about THE SCREAM DISTRICT from ScareHouse, are available at www.ScreamDistrict.com.

Lee's mastery of decades old magic traditions brings a new dimension to the world of parlor magic.

Lee Terbosic is an internationally touring magician, comedian, actor, daredevil and entertainer from Pittsburgh, PA who is proving that anything is possible. Lee is the co-star of Discovery Science Channel's recent smash Houdini's Last Secrets, a four-part TV docuseries that uncovers incredible secrets about Harry Houdini's life, family, magic and science behind some of his biggest stunts and escapes. Lee has wowed some of Hollywood's biggest stars like Aaron Paul, Jack Black, Wiz Khalifa & Michael J. Fox and with appearances on America's Got Talent on NBC, Four Weddings on TLC, and Now You See It on the BBC and been requested to perform for numerous Fortune 500 companies around the world. On November 6, 2016, Lee performed his biggest stunt to date with Houdini100, a tribute to Harry Houdini's death defying upside down straight jacket escape that he performed high above the streets of Pittsburgh, 100 years before him at the very same location in the Cultural District.
